Engage: Joseph Chapman

Joseph A. Chapman became North Dakota State University's 13th president in June 1999. Chapman's tenure at NDSU has been distinguished by a record of unprecedented successes in research, student life, curriculum, faculty pay and Division I athletics. He has demonstrated a strong commitment to the university's land-grant mission and the important work of University Extension. Under Chapman's leadership, research expenditures have doubled, to exceed $100 million and private sector partnerships have developed, including the NDSU Research and Technology Park.

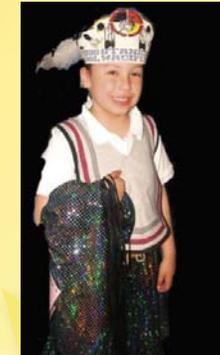

Enlighten: Sharon Anderson – From Great to Enlightened

Anderson serves as Special Consultant to the President and CEO of National 4-H Council. Prior to that assignment, she spent her career with the NDSU Extension Service serving as a specialist in human development, 4-H youth development specialist, a district director and finally as extension director for the state of North Dakota. Sharon was a member of ECOP, the National 4-H Board of Trustees and the 21st Century Extension Service project. Sharon's passion during all of her career was leadership development throughout the organization.

Enjoy: Steve Stark

Stark is an illustrator, presenter and teacher who has delighted audiences with his presentations on a variety of subjects across the country. He was an NDSU Extension Service communications specialist for 10 years and has appeared on The History Channel. His unique Illustrated History presentations are a combination of historical storytelling and giant drawings created as he speaks to you.

4-H Drummers and Dancers from the Standing Rock reservation will perform several traditional dances and drum performances. The youth are enrolled in Sioux County 4-H and part of the 21st Century After-school program.

Welcome to North Dakota Opening Reception

Velkommen, Tervetuloa, Va'lkomen or Welcome to the opening session at the Hjemkomst Center in Moorhead, Minn. Built by hand, the museum features the Hjemkomst Viking Ship, which sailed the Atlantic Ocean in 1982. The museum grounds feature a stave church, which is a Norwegian-style church that serves as a symbol of the Scandinavian heritage found in the Red River Valley. At the Hjemkomst Center, you will experience a little of the Scandinavian culture through dancing, foods and exhibits.
