This refrigerator is designed for use in locations where climatic conditions render high evaporation possible during portions of the year. It is not recommended as a substitute for an ice refrigerator where ice is available, but for locations where it is impossible or difficult to procure ice.