ARCPLC MSG-6

Notice ARCPLC-16 was issued instructing STC's to establish missing ARCPLC yields for PLC yield update and the ARC-CO and ARC-IC programs. The yield data has been approved by the STC and submitted to WDC.

The 2014 ARCPLC yield report is attached and lists the covered commodity yields used for PLC and ARC for each county.

Currently all substitute yields have been loaded in the yield update software. The 2009 – 2013 yields and the 70% of T-yield data will be posted to the ARCPLC national webpage in the near future.

The following describes the each of the yield columns on the report:

Substitute Yield – this yield is used in PLC yield updating and is the yield calculated at 75% of the 2008 – 2012 average yield for the crop in the county. This yield is only used for PLC yield updating when the crop was planted in 2008 – 2012 and yield is either a low yield or the yield is missing or not available. The substitute yields have been incorporated into the yield update software.

Crop Year 2009 – 2013 – these yields are used for the 2014 ARC-CO and ARC-IC programs.

The yields for each year are used for the ARC-CO benchmark yields for the 2014 crop year. For ARC-CO the higher of the actual yield for the county or 70% of the T-yield is used, for each year in the benchmark.

For ARC-IC, the yields may be used for any year the crop was not planted on the farm in the benchmark period with 100% of the yield assigned for that year in the ARC-IC benchmark. For ARC-IC, the higher of the actual yield for the producer/farm or 70% of the T-yield is used, for each year in the benchmark.

The yields that are highlighted in the 2009-2013 years were replaced with 70% of T-yield.

70% of T-yields – these yields are the 2013 weighted average RMA or NAP T-yields X 70%. This yield is a substitute yield and is only applicable to ARC-CO or ARC-IC. For both ARC-CO and ARC-IC, 70% of T-yield is used when the yield for the applicable year in the benchmark is low or missing. For ARC-IC the 70% of T-yield is only used for the years the crop was planted in the benchmark and the yield is low or missing.
