

Family Meal Times

Issue 7

Basic Cooking Skills Help Keep Family Meals on the Table

At the Family Table

Basic cooking skills are a must when cooking for yourself or others, especially family members. These skills provide a foundation for all family meals. Research shows that families with cooking skills are more likely to make healthier food choices and spend less money every month on food.

Cooking Basics

Three simple cooking basics will help put tasty, healthful meals on the table easily.

- Plan meals. Taking the time to plan simple meals for the week saves time, money and frustration.
 - Try planning meals weekly using a basic template (which you can adapt for your family) with ideas such as these:
 - * Pasta Monday
 - * Slow-Cooker Tuesday
 - * Leftovers Wednesday
 - * Casserole Thursday
 - * Make-your-own Pizza Friday
 - Create a binder to store your weekly meal plans and recipes. After you've created a few meal plans, start over at week one.
- Find family-friendly recipes. After you find several recipes your family likes, cooking becomes easier. Keep ingredients for these recipes in the pantry for when you may need to make quick adjustments to meal plans, such as a change in schedule or someone voices a preference for a “favorite” recipe.

- Don't have many recipes on hand? Or are you short on time? Check out our “Now Serving” publications for a series of menu plans and budget-minded meals at www.ag.ndsu.edu/pubs/meals.html.
- Shop with a grocery list. Some people do not enjoy grocery shopping. To make it less of a chore, always use a list based on the week's menu plan.
 - Check your pantry, refrigerator and freezer before shopping; you might be surprised at what you find.
 - Read sale ads to see the “specials of the week.” Perhaps tortillas and chicken are on sale. Consider making chicken enchiladas for dinner this week.
 - Consider how you might supplement your meal plan with items from your own or a friend's garden, or make a trip to a local farmers market.

A Memory of Family Meals

“When I first got married, I had no cooking skills! Slowly, I created a small list of recipes my husband liked. Now, dinner is a snap!”

Food and Family Q&A

Question: I use a lot of packaged foods such as rice or pasta mixes when serving my family dinner. I've heard they're often high in sodium. What could I use in place of these packaged side dishes that still have flavor and are not time-consuming to prepare?

You're right. Packaged side mixes often are high in sodium and sometimes high in fat, too. Although they are OK to use occasionally, choosing other options will be better for your family's health. Try these homemade side dishes:

- Veggies of all colors: Veggies are a quick side-dish addition to any table. Try them raw, steamed, stir-fried, grilled or roasted. Add a salad to your menu in addition to a vegetable. A variety of greens mixed together with a bit of dressing is a delicious and colorful side to any meal.
- Pasta: Saute cooked pasta with just a splash of oil and garlic as a tasty side dish that any member of the family would enjoy. Try adding a teaspoon of Parmesan cheese for extra flavor.
- Rice: Try brown rice for a nutty flavor. Cooking rice in reduced-sodium chicken broth or tomato juice instead of water enhances flavor. Or mix it with salsa for a great Tex-Mex flavor.

Get your kids involved!

"Kids a Cookin'" is a great site to find ideas on how to prepare easy recipes. Need a recipe? Don't know what the term "braise" means? Grab your kids and check out the website www.kidsacookin.org.

A Family Meal Recipe

Broccoli Chicken Stir-fry

- 1 pound chicken breast, cut into bite-sized pieces
- 1 tsp. minced garlic
- 2 large carrots, chopped
- ½ tsp. powdered ginger
- 2 c. frozen or fresh broccoli
- ½ c. chicken broth
- 2 tsp. chicken bouillon granules (optional)
- 1 Tbsp. soy sauce (reduced-sodium, if available)

Cook chicken in a skillet with chicken broth. When chicken is cooked through, add the carrots, soy sauce and garlic and stir together thoroughly while adding ginger. If desired, add bouillon granules (optional – this increases sodium content). Cover and allow the vegetables to cook, stirring occasionally until the carrots begin to fry. Add broccoli and cook just a few minutes, stirring continuously. Serve immediately.

Makes four servings.

Each serving has 170 calories, 3 grams (g) fat, 25 g protein, 10 g carbohydrate, 3 g fiber and 290 milligrams sodium.

Menu Idea: Broccoli Chicken Stir-fry over brown rice, mandarin oranges and low-fat milk

Quick Tip: Having chicken again tomorrow night? Cook an extra chicken breast or two tonight to save on cooking time tomorrow.

Developed by:

Kendra Otto, Former Practicum Student
Human Development and Family Sciences

Julie Garden-Robinson, Ph.D., R.D., L.R.D.
Food and Nutrition Specialist

Sean Brotherson, Ph.D.
Family Science Specialist

Eat Smart. Play Hard. Together

For more information about food and families, visit this NDSU Extension Service website: www.ndsu.edu/eatsmart

"Eat Smart. Play Hard." is an initiative of the Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The NDSU Extension Service does not endorse commercial products or companies even though reference may be made to tradenames, trademarks or service names. NDSU encourages you to use and share this content, but please do so under the conditions of our Creative Commons license. You may copy, distribute, transmit and adapt this work as long as you give full attribution, don't use the work for commercial purposes and share your resulting work similarly. For more information, visit www.ag.ndsu.edu/agcomm/creative-commons.

County commissions, North Dakota State University and U.S. Department of Agriculture cooperating. North Dakota State University does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, gender expression/identity, genetic information, marital status, national origin, physical and mental disability, pregnancy, public assistance status, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a U.S. veteran. Direct inquiries to: Vice Provost for Faculty and Equity and Title IX/ADA Coordinator, Old Main 201, 701-231-7708. This publication will be made available in alternative formats for people with disabilities upon request, 701-231-7881.

Revised August 2016